MEDICAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

"London Doctors and Dental Surgeons."

A WORK of peculiar interest to the profession has been issued by The Grafton Publishing Co., of Chichester House, Chancery Lane. London Doctors and Dental Surgeons is an epitomised directory of the profession in Greater London and environs, giving at a glance only the essential data needed, and being singularly free from technicality is valuable to the laity as well as to the profession.

In two sections (1) Medical, (2) Dental, a complete list of physicians, surgeons and dental surgeons is given, followed by qualifications, date of registration, partnerships, addresses, telephones, consulting hours, description of Practice with chief appointments, and for consultants or specialists, statements, furnished by themselves of the nature of their work. This is quite a new departure, and one which, had it not been carried out with a scrupulous regard for etiquette, might have been disastrous. That the work enjoys the cordial friendship of the highest authorities is evident from the fact that the cover is a reproduction of that of The Medical Register, and we note with interest a strong statement on the title page of the medical section that "essentially dissimilar from other unofficial publications" all names removed from the Register for any reason are rigidly excluded, and on that of the dental section only graduates and licentiates in dental surgery are included, which is very satisfactory in view of the 1921 "Dental Act." A further statement recognising the authority and jurisdiction of the General Medical Council and The Dental Board, an acceptance "without question of their decisions regarding the inclusion or exclusion of any name," amply indicates the very proper attitude of the editor and publishers. The work has, we understand, been strongly supported by the profession prior to publication, and marking as it undoubtedly does a new, satisfactory and practical departure, should continue to find favour and support, for in affording ethical publicity to all, it carries out one of its stated objects—to bring the profession and public into closer contact—and that on distinctly desirable lines. It will have a special interest for the provincial practitioner desiring to be au courant with the consultants of the metropolis. A handsome volume of some 300 pages, it is well printed, and in arrangement and type closely resembles The Medical Register, which has obviously been its guiding inspiration. It can be obtained from the publishers at 15s. 6d. post free from the above address.—Medical Press and Circular.

BANTAM COFFEE

CONSISTS only of the soluble portion of pure coffee beans and offers great advantages when a drink of coffee is required at short notice.

It is a dry, granular powder completely soluble in water and is devoid of the tarry taste which is probably the chief cause of the unpleasant effects which, in some people, follow the drinking of ordinary coffee. It is free from chicory, sugar, or other adulterant.
